Can you describe a time when you used data to drive marketing strategy?

How to Answer

This question is aimed at getting a sense of your analytical skills and your approach to decision making. The interviewer wants to know if you understand how to use data to inform your marketing strategies. In your answer, describe a specific instance where you used data, the steps you took, the results, and how this impacted the overall business strategy.

Sample Answer

In my previous role at XYZ Corp, we were struggling to increase our engagement rates on social media. I initiated a deep-dive analysis of our past posts and engagement rates correlating them with various factors such as time of posting, type of content, messaging, and more. The data showed that video content posted during evening hours had the highest engagement. Based on this insight, we reoriented our content strategy to focus more on video content and optimized the posting schedule. This led to a 30% increase in our overall social media engagement within three months and also positively impacted our lead generation.
